City appeals funding adjustment

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE - Belle Glade City Finance Director Frank C. Anderson plans to appeal a recent adjustment by the federal government which lowered the city's revenue sharing allocation.

Anderson said that he had made a similar appeal in 1974 with no results.

The adjustment lowers the expected revenue sharing allocation the city can expect from the United States Government by 34.38 percent, according to Anderson.

Earlier estimates had placed the amount the city would receive at $264,663. The adjustment lowers that figure to $180,061. Last year, the city received about $280,956 in revenue sharing funds.

The adjustment is based in large part on a change in the per capita income in the city, according to Anderson.

The per capita income the original estimate was based on was $4,071, a figure derived from 1977 sources. The new per capita figure determined in 1979 was $6,647, an increase of 63.28 percent, Anderson said, who added that he felt that increase was "unreal."

"I just can't believe those figures," he said. "I don't believe this city is that affluent."

Revenue sharing fund allocations are based on population, per capita income, adjusted tax income and intergovernmental transfers, according to Anderson. Per capita income and adjusted tax income are the two most important items, he said.

Anderson said he is trying to obtain facts from the county and other local governments to use in appealing the readjustment.

In South Bay, per capita income dropped only slightly from $3,749 in 1977 to $3,721 in 1979, according to City Clerk Virginia Walker.

This drop in per capita income will mean an increase in South Bay's revenue sharing funds.

The allocation will increase from $64,902 to $95,397.

"I'm just happy they readjusted it," said

Walker. "Although I know how Belle Glade must feel."

In 1974, the Belle Glade allocation was reduced by the government and an appeal failed to change the decision, according to Anderson.

That year, per capita income in the county rose 20.4 percent. In Belle Glade it rose 30.4 percent, while in Pahokee it rose 20.4 percent and in South Bay it rose 20.5 percent.

Revenue sharing funds are provided to local and county governments by the federal government with a minimum of requirements attached. Anderson and Walker both said their cities use the funds mostly for capital outlay items.

GGH sues Blue Cross

BELLE GLADE - Glades General Hospital is challenging claims by Blue Cross/Blue Shield Insurance Co. of Florida that it made overpayments totaling over $49,000 between 1978 and 1981.

According to Administrator Patrick Lennon, the hospital is seeking a declaratory judgment against the company in the 15th judicial circuit court.

In October 1981, the company had audited the records of about three percent of the patients treated at Glades General from 1978 to 1981, and had determined that it had overpaid $49,307.79 in claims, according to Lennon. He said Blue Cross is asking for repayment of that amount.

Lennon said the hospital objects to Blue Cross taking retrospective audits three years after the case, and said he feels the company should check the validity of each claim as it comes up.

The company has disallowed some of the payments it made because laboratory tests were performed without written orders from doctors, claiming all tests should be done only under written orders, according to Lennon.

Lennon said doctors will ask for the same lab tests for all patients and standing orders should suffice. Requiring written orders is "contrary to what's done in the rest of the country," he said.

Filing deadline draws near

BELLE GLADE - With the deadline for filing for candidacy in the Belle Glade municipal elections less than a week away, both races are uncontested.

The deadline for filing as a candidate in the race is Wednesday, August 25.

So far, only two incumbents have filed for spots on the ballot in the September 14 election.

Mayor Thomas L.

Altman is running for reelection to his fifth term on the five-member commission.

He has been on the board of commissioners since 1974.

Charles Goodlett is running for a second term, having first been elected to his seat in 1980.

Neither candidate has drawn opposition yet, possibly setting up an uncontested election in each race.

City Clerk June Boglioli said this could be the first uncontested election in the city's history.

Those interested in running for election in the race should contact Boglioli at city hall.

Painter electrocuted at Sugar Co-op Friday

BELLE GLADE - Celestino Sosa, 55, of 932 N.E. 21 St., Belle Glade, a painter for the Sugar Cane Cooperative of Florida was electrocuted Friday, Aug. 13 at the Cooperative.

Sosa was pronounced dead at 11:51 at Glades General Hospital by Dr. C. Venugopal.

Det. Steve Haller, with the Glades Substation of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department, said Sosa's death has been ruled accidental.

Haller said Roberto Exposito, a painter with the Cooperative and a witness to the accident said the two were preparing to paint a two story tank when the accident occurred.

According to the report filed with the Sheriff's Department, Sosa tried repairing an electrical light he was using to illuminate the tank. Exposito had been asked to cut off the power while Sosa repaired the electrical cord. Having repaired the cord, Sosa asked that the power be restored and at that point was electrocuted.

Haller said the Occupational Safety and Health Association (OSHA) completed its report on Monday. However the organization had not released its findings as of Tuesday.

Sosa is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catalina Sosa.

Mixon Funeral Home handled local funeral arrangements.

This election needs more participants

Unless some Belle Glade citizens decide within the next seven days that they want to run for city office, the two Belle Glade municipal seats will be filled next year with their incumbents.

Mayor Thomas L. Altman and Commissioner Charles Goodlett are the only qualified candidates at press time for elective office in the city.

We think that is repugnant and contrary to the American system.

Not that the candidates themselves bother us. We are sure the mayor and commissioner are very qualified and conscientious towards their civic duty as leaders on the municipal government.

What disturbs us is the lack of competition in the elective process is a very important part of the American system.

It can bring forward divergent points of views that may be helpful in solving problems.

It can expose new issues to public scrutiny.

Most of all, it offers the voters a choice.

The lack of competition indicates a society which is apathetic or unwilling to challenge the norm.

We would like to think that there are more than two people interested in serving on the two seats up for election this year.

We urge anyone interested in serving on the city commission to file their qualifying papers before the August 25 deadline.

The citizens of Belle Glade deserve a choice.

At face value

Talk about name recognition. Movie stars love it, ordinary folks are flattered by it — so long as the fame is based on good reputation, rather than notoriety, and politicians positively thrive on it.

A politician who no one has ever heard of is unlikely to get many votes. That is unless is opponent is known for the wrong reasons.

I can tell you about name recognition. The other day I ran into a fellow I hadn't seen in years. He wanted to introduce me to his father. The only problem is that he called me Bill Lampton. Bill hasn't worked here in two years.

I don't really mind though, because some people still call me Bill, as in Bill Rogers. That wouldn't be so bad if they were getting me confused with either the golfer or the marathon runner. But no. They get me confused with Bill Rogers, a fellow who use to report from the Glades and fled to the luxury of Naples at last three years ago. No, I really don't mind being confused with the lesser-known Bill Rogers despite the fact that I am far handsomer. At least that is what one authority who I respect highly, my wife, says. When I hear a voice like that with such credibility, I listen.

I never really had a yearn for fame. I have no desire to run for elected office, to be a movie star, or to go down in history as a notorious sort of figure.

Besides, they are always rewriting the history books. I came across a tidbit the other day that Alexander the Great was gay? I have to ask myself, how in the world historians find out something like that. I always thought Alex was too busy conquering the world. If he were alive, he would probably say it was a false rumor, started by his enemies in Persia or India.

There is name identification and then there is name identification. At one time in the Glades area, there was Jim Jones at this paper, Dean Jones at the Glades Times, and Bob Jones at the Glades Trend. It got to be kind of confusing with all the Joneses around. None of us were related (or for that matter are), which is probably a great relief for all concerned.

There was little family resemblance anyway. I once called Dean H. Jones, you would have to call me Little Jones

Speaking of Dean, and I hope he won't mind me repeating this, there were once a delegation of Chinese from the Peoples Republic who were touring the Glades area. One of the things which most impressed them, however was Dean's birth. One of them told Dean there aren't many people his age in China. Dean shot back, in accented English style, that there aren't too many people his size in this country either. I'm sure there is some sort of moral in this tale of name recognition. It may be that fame isn't necessarily in the name. And that a man of substance may be recognized, even though he is called "oh what's his name."

History of the Everglades

20 YEARS AGO THE BELLE GLADE HERALD AUGUST 9, 1962

The Pahokee Chamber of Commerce endorsed a joint hospital to serve the residents of Belle Glade and Pahokee.

The endorsement was made in preparation of an Aug. 21 election on whether the joint hospital ought to be built or whether the two cities should maintain separate hospitals.

Chamber directors said they were impressed with the logic of the argument that the small patient load of the separate facilities made it impossible to get many specialists in the Glades.

In a related story, a consultant told the Hospital Taxpayers League the best site for a new hospital, joint or separate, would be at the site of Belle Glade Memorial Hospital.

The league was formed and the consultant called in to get an independent evaluation on the problem.

The Bank of Pahokee was in the midst of remodeling an adjoining building, which would be connected to the bank building to more than double its size.

The bank's air conditioning was being upgraded and remodeling included the addition of a ladies' lounge and an employees' kitchenette.

The lobby was being expanded to include what was then being used as offices for the president and his secretary.

30 YEARS AGO THE BELLE GLADE HERALD AUGUST 15, 1952

The South Bay City Council lopped $52.50 a month off Police Chief R.C. White's salary, purportedly for refusing to operate a speed trap.

White had recently been in the limelight for eliminating bolita operations in South Bay, an action preceded by a tightening up of liquor laws in South Bay.

White said his reward was to have his salary slashed because he had failed to bring in sufficient revenues in the form of fines and forfeitures.

Police Commissioner Gordon Bowen said White's statement was wrong but he said he had not had, "one ounce of cooperation," from White.

"This town is growing," Bowen was quoted as saying. "It needs more revenue. Mr. White just ain't bringing in enough revenue."

In a later statement, Mayor M.J. Hardy, who at first refused to comment, said the council hadn't told White to create a speed trap but that there was a danger from high-speed traffic on the city's highway.

Delano Bill Mathis, son of D.B. "Bama" Mathis of Belle Glade, was critically injured in a mill accident in Cantonment, a small town 15 miles from Pensacola.

Mathis was working in a St. Regis Paper Company mill when a swinging piece of machinery struck him, knocking him unconscious for 13 hours.

He was intermittently unconscious for 72 hours and his parents drove to Pensacola to be with him while he was in the hospital there.

40 YEARS AGO THE EVERGLADES NEWS AUGUST 14, 1942

Paul Hardin, a member of the Education, Information and Morale Committee of the Pahokee Canal Point Defense Council, spiked a rumor that a Canal Point man had been arrested by the FBI.

Hardin said he immediately investigated rumors he'd heard that FBI agents had arrested John Kautz, a local farmer, for possession of a short wave radio transmitter, and carried him to Miami.

He said he quickly found there were no foundations for the rumor.

Kautz was a naturalized citizen born in Saratoga, Russia. A son, Henry, was serving in the Army Air Corps. Another son, John, had just applied for induction into the Marine Corps and third son, Roy, was in defense work in Carolina.

Pahokee Mayor O.B. McClure announced the passage of a city ordinance that set a fine of $50 or 60 days in prison, or both, for resident violating blackout regulations.

McClure said all businesses would have to a range for switches on the outside of the building so police and air raid wardens could switch on lights without entering the burglar proof.

Two fish caught on one hook broke a record, according to a front page story.

It all happened when Frank and Lewis Friess Bud Wroten and Crawford Mock went fishing in Salgro.

"It seems the boys were pulling 'em in with it the effort when Bud caught a snapper and a lad fish on the same hook."

"The fishermen had plenty of luck that day, the story read. "More than 80 pounds of dressed fish were caught and brought home, lots of it group reported."

ELLE GLADE—Senator Tom Lewis (R-Dist. 7) Republican candidate in Florida's newly created 12th Congressional District made a flying sweep in the Glades Tuesday. Lewis and his campaign aides spent several hours meeting with members of the Glades agriculture community, the Belle Glade Rotary Club and political reporters at the Pahokee Lions Club.

Lewis said he favors cutting government spending.

Lewis was first elected to the Florida House of Representatives in 1972 and served in that legislative body through 1980. While in the House, Lewis served on the Commerce,

Speed Skiing
To most Americans, the record speed of the fastest skier in the world—over 125 miles an hour—is hard to imagine.

But consider this: The speed record for the Olympic bobsled run at Lake Placid is 81 mph. The speed of a free-falling parachutist before opening the chute is between 100 and 120 mph.

agriculture." The crowd consisted mostly of Clewiston's community and business elite, and included virtually every candidate for office countywide. The guests milled about, enjoyed drinks and hors d'oeuvres, and waited their turn to meet the lieutenant governor.

Mixson warmed up his audience with anecdotes and self-deprecating humor, then eased into his campaign themes: crime, education, the elderly, business and agriculture.

"We've attracted 100,000 industrial and high-technology jobs in the last four years," he said. "This has served us well because our unemployment is going down while in the north it's going up."

"We've made great progress in turning this business of crime around. We've put more than $250 million into these programs, like prisons," Mixson said many Southwest Florida residents have asked him about highway and road improvements. He said projects like these deserve to be funded, but the state has a problem with needs exceeding revenues.

Now in his third week of travelling around the state, Mixson said he is in his element campaigning.

"I personally like campaigning," he said. "I love meeting people. It inspires me to great efforts."

Before appearing in Clewiston Monday night, Mixson spent the day in Naples, and planned to have breakfast in Okeechobee Tuesday morning, followed this week by visits to Hardy and DeSoto counties.

And what of the lieutenant-governorship, a position others have found dull and uninspiring? "By election and by friendship I feel I am the closest person to the governor," he said. "I feel I have total access. I don't make the final decisions, but I feel I am a part of those decisions."

Palm Beach Junior College Glades expands

BELLE GLADE -- Palm Beach Junior College-Glades keeps growing and growing.

When Provost Cecil Conley first arrived in the Glades in 1972 as an executive dean, classes were taught in the National Guard Armory, at churches, the airport, Glades Central Community High School Annex and the prison.

Since January 1975, PBJC-Glades students have been attending most of their classes at the main campus in Belle Glade.

This Spring, the new Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center opened its doors, and more growth is planned.

Long range plans call for an athletic facility with playing fields and handball and tennis courts.

Conley, provost at the college, said those plans are still being worked on.

In the meantime, the college is expanding its curriculum. A course in Conversational English will be offered this fall, along with an expanded physical education curriculum.

Golf and archery will be added to a curriculum which already included bowling, tennis and physical fitness, according to Conley, who's been provost since 1977.

The expanded physical education curriculum is possible because of the acquisition of Jan Bottoms, formerly with Christian Day School.

Students at PBJC-Glades can earn AA or AS degrees. Conley said that if previous years are any indication, between 600 and 700 students will enroll in credit courses.

Another 700 to 800 will enroll in non-credit courses, he said.

Registration for the fall term can be completed up to August 24, when classes begin, said Conley, although he urged early registration.

The campus is located at 1977 College Drive in Belle Glade, and the telephone number is 996-3055.

The school offers free tuition to Glades students who finish in the top ten percent of their class.

Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center

Cultural Arts Center season to start Sept. 8

BELLE GLADE -- The first season at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center will start Wednesday, September 8, with a Japanese dance performance, according to Judy Schiele, the director and coordinator of the center.

Gayko Uchiyama will be featured in an 8 p.m. performance of various traditional Japanese dances.

Her performance will start the first cultural arts season at PBJC-Glades, a season which Schiele said should feature at least one event a month at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center.

Already scheduled for shows this fall are two events in November and one in October.

The Sweet Adelines, a singing group from West Palm Beach, will perform at the center sometime in October. In November, the center will host a professional acting troupe's performance of a mystery play, "Angel Street."

Also that month, a family concert will be given by Theodore Lettvin.

The center opened its doors in the Spring and Schiele took over as director and coordinator July 1.

She was a former high school teacher. Glades Day School in Belle Glade before assuming her job at PBJC-Glades.

She said a misconception has grown in the community that the center is booked through 1983 and unavailable.

"We have many open dates to schedule events," she said, adding that the college would be willing to listen to anyone who wants to schedule something at the center.

Season tickets will be offered for sale for the events the center hosts through January. Those tickets will go on sale in September, said Schiele.

Those who wish to make donations to keep the theatre alive may do so through a "Friends of the Theatre" organization in September also. Those donations will be tax deductible, said Schiele.

King takes over at Christian Day

BELLE GLADE -- When Christian Day opens its doors to students August 23, there will be two new principals and seven new faculty members to greet them.

Gloria J. King has moved into the high school principal's office and Karen Phillips will be elementary school principal, in addition to her duties as a teacher. King has been with Christian Day School for 11 years as a teacher, high school coordinator and assistant principal. She replaces Arvne Bell who was principal for three years.

Seven teachers will be joining the faculty for their first full year with the school, according to King.

Robin Waggoner who started at the school in April, will be continuing in her role as a music teacher. Waggoner was associated with a Christian singing group and recorded an album, according to King.

Bob Hensley, who also joined the staff in the middle of last year, will start his first full year as a high school mathematics teacher.

Barb Weippert will teach kindergarten and Nancy Kritzman will teach the third grade.

Kim Lytle will teach the sixth grade.

Eva Rankin has started as a high school science teacher and Marlene Pickard will teach science to junior high schoolers.

Other changes will also greet the students. A hot lunch program will be offered for the first time, replacing the sandwich meals previously offered.

A new scheduling system which includes split lunches has also been adopted.

The football team, coached last year by Woody Salvatore, will be coached by James Jacks this year. He'll be assisted by John Chamblee.

The team will be playing on its own football field, another first for the school. The first

The school has consolidated and closed down the school in Pahokee, which used to serve grade schoolers, according to Headmaster William Branyon.

Schooling required for license

PAHOKEE Beginning October 1, persons applying for licenses as bail bondsmen, life insurance or surplus lines agents will have to meet new requirements. In a notice Commissioner Bill Gunter said today.

Previously, qualified persons seeking a license as life insurance or surplus lines agents only had to pass a state exam in order to be licensed. In the case of bail bondsmen, even an exam was necessary.

Now, under the rule-making authority granted him with the passage of the new insurance code, Gunter has proposed new rules or anyone wishing to become licensed in one of these three fields.

Under the proposed rules, life insurance agent applications will have to complete 40 course hours, in addition to passing the state exam, in order to be licensed. Surplus lines agents in either attend classes for 60 hours or devote one year's experience, in addition to the exam, in order to be licensed.

Bail bond runners must take 20 hours of course work in criminal justice, in addition to the previous requirement of working under the supervision of a licensed bail bondsman, in order to be licensed.

These new standards are part of an overall plan by the Department to upgrade existing guidelines for license qualification courses with a more definite set of rules. These proposed rules will result in changes in the current licensing procedures for the areas mentioned.

Gunter said that most schools offering license qualification courses already are in compliance with the requirements laid down in the proposed rules, which will take effect in October.

These proposed rules should provide greater clarification and guidance to schools offering license qualification insurance course instruction, Gunter said.

SPORTS SHORTS

Speed Skating

To most Americans the word speed of the fastest in the world - over 100 mph in a bare minute.

But consider this: The world's fastest skater, the 1981 U.S. national champion, skated at 111 mph. The speed of a bullet is 1,100 mph. The speed of a car is 100 mph. The speed of a train is 120 mph.

Now, it may mean something to know that Franz Weber of Innsbruck, Austria, blazed down the three quarter mile course at Sledgehammer, in the Camel International Speed Skating Championships this year at 126.238 mph. Weber's wasn't the only record run in the skating event, sponsored by R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. Martin Kuntz, 31, of Telluride, Colorado, shattered the men's record of 109.6 mph with a run of 1:29.00. She is the first American woman to hold the record.

A Rejoice for Our Foundation

To the people of Israel the temple at Jerusalem was the symbol of God's abiding care over them. One of the greatest desires in their life was their desire to rebuild the temple of Solomon that was destroyed when Israel fell to the Babylonians in 586 B.C. It was their belief that God could not be truly worshipped except in the temple at Jerusalem.

King Herod, in attempting to gain influence with the people of Israel, decided to rebuild the temple during his reign, prior to the birth of Jesus. He decided to rebuild the temple of Solomon, if not in beauty, then size. The main sanctuary of Herod's temple was 150 feet long and 90 feet wide and 150 feet high and was made of immense blocks of marble. The cornerstone of the temple was 19 feet long and 7 feet thick and was used to bind the walls together for it determined the foundation. Herod, in order to build this temple, went to a great deal of trouble.

The Jewish leaders did not want Gentiles to build it because the leaders felt it would be defiled if Gentile hands touched it and the Jewish people did not have rock masons to do this, so two years were used in training 1,000 priests to become rock masons. In addition, to be even more certain, these priests wore their priestly robes as they followed their tasks as rock masons. Other than the 1,000 rock masons, there were 10,000 trained carpenters and other artisans plus 18,000 workers building the temple. Work began in 20

B.C. and was completed in 48 years.

To give additional size to the building, there were double doors that were 46 feet high and 22 feet wide that took a dozen men to close. To the people of Israel, the temple was the symbol of their individuality in their worship of God.

Jesus tells the people, "Have you never read in the Scriptures, 'The very stone which the builders rejected had become the head of the corner and this was the Lord's doing and it is marvelous in our eyes'?" You can imagine that the stone had been taken out of the quarry and the stonemason, looking at the blueprints, marked and cut the stones to be used in the building. There was one stone that was rejected. It was large and did not look like the grain was good and that it would not show up well. First of all it was passed by and ignored, and then finally, as the other stones were cut, one by one, the rubble fell on this stone and it was completely covered up and forgotten. Then, perhaps the architect and the contractor checked over all the stones and found that the most important stone was missing. They did not have the cornerstone, the stone that was going to be the foundation stone of the building they questioned the stone masons and the workmen and one of them remembered "Yes, there is another stone. It is over there in the rubbish pile." This was to be the stone upon which the whole building was built.

Jesus reminds the Scribes and Pharisees of the 18th Psalm saying, "Have you not even read this passage. The stone which the builders rejected has become the chief cornerstone. This is the Lord's way." The Scribes and Pharisees felt that they were the ones to give the approval of the Messiah. They couldn't imagine that they would reject the Messiah as He was inferring. Jesus proves to the scripture teachers that it will be God who will select the cornerstone and not man. Jesus himself will become the cornerstone that supports and ties the whole structure together. Isaiah prophesies, "He was a man despised and rejected by men and therefore a man acquainted with grief, as one from whom men hid their faces." He was despised and no one honored him. We can imagine the rejection, of first being ignored and then overlooked. As the stone was covered up, so Jesus was pushed further and further back and rejected. And then the Lord, the builder, came and makes his selection. Isaiah writes, "Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I am laying in Zion a foundation, a stone, a tested stone, a precious cornerstone, a sure foundation." God has selected what man rejects and the Kingdom will be founded upon His Son who man has rejected. Just as the stone, a building of Israel, that is the Jewish authorities rejected has become the chief stone so Christ comes to lead a new world.

Today the world needs something to hold it together. Man tries to construct an organization and as the organization fails time and time again, the question comes up, realistically, how can we build unless we use a building stone that will join classes and nations and races. What stone will bind us together except the universal and forgiving Christ? The world must accept that which they have rejected in order to have lasting peace. This will only happen as individuals accept Christ.

Have we not been like the builders, who seeing this awkward stone which has no beauty in itself, first ignoring it, seeing it yet not acknowledging it, then walking by and acknowledging it, yet not reacting to it? Realizing later that this is the only way, and trying to forget, and yet, coming back to the realization that true life can be built only by accepting that which we had rejected and seeing that it is necessary that our life does not have a proper foundation unless it is built upon the foundation stone of Jesus Christ.

FFVA Convention plans underway

Orlando FFVA President Frank Teets has announced that the response has been excellent to invitations mailed out to the association's 38th Annual Meeting which will be held September 22-25 at The Breakers, Palm Beach.

Florida Fruit & Vegetable Association is a non-profit, agricultural trade association representing growers, shippers and processors of Florida's vegetable, citrus, tropical fruit & sugar cane industries.

According to Teets, business sessions will include, in addition to the annual membership meeting, informative workshops on two pieces of Federal Initiative and the Immigration Control Act. An update on the association's Intermed program, a concept for shipping products combining rail and truck transportation is also on the workshop agenda.

Teets pointed out that delegates can look forward to an excellent social program including such traditional and enjoyable events as:

Welcoming Luncheon, Annual Citrus Breakfast, sponsored again this year by the Florida Citrus Commission; a Western Style Barbecue; and the Annual Banquet which will climax the Convention on Friday evening.

ment, a T. Round Robin, and a Non-Golfers Potting Tour.

A number of special events also have been planned for spouses attending the Convention. Teets summarized the Convention plans with the comment:

"Everyone is looking forward to the Annual Convention. The program looks very good, the social events relaxing, and the ambience of The Breakers unparalleled."

Summer Annuals

BY Dr. Robert J. Black
IFAS Extension Horticulturist

Now during the in-between season for planting colorful summer and fall annuals, is an excellent time to select plants and seeds and to locate easy-to-care-for pots and containers.

Annuals are easy to care for and fast to perform. They adapt readily to containers provided they do not outgrow the size of their containers.

Dwarf varieties of summer annuals may be planted several to a pot, spacing each plant approximately six inches apart. One plant should be enough for a six or eight inch pot. Be sure the annual you choose is a summer flowering type and one that will endure the heat and long days of summer and fall.

Other "children of the sun" which will reward summer days with vivid and continual color in pots may include vinca or periwinkle, portulaca, gailardia or blanket flowers, and ornamental peppers.

There are non-flowering plants, too, for containers, which have a wide range of colorful foliage. The gray summer and fall colors of coleus, alternanthera and scalypta or copper-leaf are quite adaptable in planter boxes or other containers, and perform well under the arrival of winter.

Lush summer greens for pots may include ferns, fatsia, banana English ivy, elephant ear and auburn. Unlike most of the flowering annuals, the greens demand a shaded location in the garden.

Even though container plants are easy to care for, they do have their demands for success. The major requirement is that of watering. The hot days of summer quickly dry out the container; therefore, they will need watering at least once a week, if not more often. Use a slow stream of water so as not to disturb the soil or shallow root area. Potting soil should be loose and well drained to insure good water penetration and to prevent soil compaction.

Plant foods in the potted soils are quickly washed from the soils with continued watering thus need replacement with a bi-weekly feeding of a complete liquid house-plant fertilizer.

The removal of faded blooms of flowering container plants is important, as it is actually a slight pruning process which encourages more branching and more blooms. Terminal shoots of young plants may be pinched back to form a more bushy and well-branched plant in the container even before it starts flowering and during early stages of growth.

The wide selection of colorful summer and fall plants for pots, and the portable aspect of potted gardening, which allows for a change or rearrangement in placement or pot grouping, will guarantee fun and attractiveness in home landscaping. Potted gardening also uses a limited amount of room and a small investment for such big rewards. The gardener who will plan ahead may add rich and vivid color with potted summer and fall annuals to grace the patio, poolside, wall or doorstep.

Chamber sets banquet date

BELLE GLADE - The Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce has set the date and location for its annual awards banquet.

The banquet will be held at the Belle Glade Lodge on October 21, it was revealed at the monthly meeting of the board of directors, Thursday, August 12.

The cost per ticket will be determined after the board meets a caterer.

The chamber has already hired a speaker, W.C. Newberry of Texas, for the event.

According to David Goodlett, the chamber saved $400 by bargaining directly with Newberry instead of a booking agent.

The chamber wanted to have 350 tickets printed for the event, but will sell only the amount dictated by the capacity of the room.

"I'd like to see us sell 300, 350 tickets," said James Jacks, the board chairman. "I think we need to sell that many."

The chamber also nominated ten people for director's positions: Kendra Perkins, president of Perkins Farms Inc.; Bill Schoenfeld, president of Glades Roofing; Jerry Lohman; Steve Weeks of Seminole Supply; John Piza of the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative; John Siver, the postmaster; Jeff Royal of Royal's Inc.; Buddy Bowers, manager of the Time Saver; Ed Lively of Lively Enterprises and Thomas Montgomery, an attorney.

The members of the chamber will vote on the directors.

The outgoing directors are President James Jacks, D. Bill Mathis, Pedro Gonzalez and Dennis Wedgworth.

A Rejoice for Our Foundation

To the people of Israel the temple at Jerusalem was the symbol of God's abiding care over them. One of the greatest drives in their life was their desire to rebuild the temple of Solomon that was destroyed when Israel fell to the Babylonians in 596. It was their belief that God could not be truly worshipped except in the temple at Jerusalem.

King Herod, in attempting to gain influence with the people of Israel, decided to rebuild the temple during his reign, prior to the birth of Jesus. He decided to outdo the temple of Solomon, if not in beauty, then size. The main sanctuary of Herod's temple was 150 feet long and 90 feet wide and 150 feet high and was made of immense blocks of marble. The cornerstone of the temple was 19 feet long and 7 feet thick and was used to bind the walls together for it determined the foundation. Herod, in order to build this temple, went to a great deal of trouble.

The Jewish leaders did not want Gentiles to build it because the leaders felt it would be defiled if Gentile hands touched it and the Jewish people did not have rock masons to do this, so two years was taken in training 1,000 priests to become rock masons. In addition, to be even more certain, these priests wore their priestly robes as they followed their tasks as rock masons. Other than the 1,000 rock masons, there were 10,000 trained carpenters and other artisans plus 18,000 workers building the temple. Work began in 20

B.C. and was completed in 48 years.

To give additional size to the building, there were double doors that were 45 feet high and 22 feet wide that took a dozen men to close. To the people of Israel, the temple was a symbol of their individuality in their worship of God.

Jesus tells the people, "Have you never read in the Scriptures, 'the very stone which the builders rejected had become the head of the corner and this was the Lord's doing and it is marvelous in our eyes'?" You can imagine that the stone, being taken out of the quarry and the stonemason, looking at the blueprints, marked and cut the stones to be used in the building. There was one stone that was rejected. It was large and did not look like the grain was good and that it would not show up well. First of all it was passed by and ignored, and then finally, as the other stones were cut, one by one, the rubble fell on this stone and it was completely covered up and forgotten. Then, perhaps the architect and the contractor checked over all the stones and found that the most important stone was missing. They did not have the cornerstone, the stone that was going to be the foundation stone of the building, they questioned the stone masons and the workmen and one of them remembered, "Yes, there is another stone. It is over there in the rubbish pile." This was to be the stone upon which the whole building was to rest.

Jesus reminds the Scribes and Pharisees of the 18th Psalm saying, "Have you not even read this passage, The stone which the builders rejected has become the chief cornerstone. This is the Lord's way." The Scribes and Pharisees felt that they were the ones to give the approval of the Messiah. They couldn't imagine that they would reject the Messiah as He was inferring. Jesus proves to the scripture searchers that it will be God who will select the cornerstone and not man. Jesus himself will become the cornerstone that supports and ties the whole structure together.

Isaiah prophesies, "He was a man despised and rejected by men and therefore a man acquainted with grief, as one from whom men hid their faces." He was despised and no one honored him. We can imagine the rejection, of first being ignored and then overlooked. As the stone was covered up, so Jesus was pushed further and further back and rejected. And then the Lord, the builder, came and makes his selection. Isaiah writes, "Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I am laying in Zion a foundation, a stone, a tested stone, a precious cornerstone, a sure foundation." God has selected what man rejects and the Kingdom will be founded upon His Son who man has rejected. Just as the stone, which the builders of Israel, that is the Jewish authorities rejected has become the chief stone so Christ comes to lead a new world.

Today the world needs something to hold it together. Man tries to construct an organization and as the organization fails time and time again, the question comes up, realistically, how can we build unless we use a binding stone that will join classes and nations and races. What stone will bind us together except the universal and forgiving Christ? The world must accept that which they have rejected in order to have lasting peace. This will only happen as individuals accept Christ.

Have we not been like the builders, who seeing this awkward stone which has no beauty in itself, first ignoring it, seeing it yet not acknowledging it, then walking by and acknowledging it, yet not reacting to it? Realizing later that this is the only way, and trying to forget, and yet, coming back to the realization that true life can be built only by accepting that which we had rejected and seeing that it is necessary that our life does not have a proper foundation unless it is built upon the foundation stone of Jesus Christ.

FFVA Convention plans underway

Orlando - FFVA President Frank Teets announced that the response has been excellent to invitations mailed out to the association's 39th Annual Meeting which will be held September 22-25 at The Breakers, Palm Beach.

Florida Fruit & Vegetable Association is a non-profit, agricultural trade association representing growers, shippers and processors of Florida's vegetable, citrus, tropical fruit & sugar cane industries.

According to Teets, business sessions will include, in addition to the annual membership meeting, informative workshops on two pieces of Federal Initiative and the Immigration Control Act. An update on the association's Intermed Program, a concept for shipping products combining rail and truck transportation is also on the workshop agenda.

Teets pointed out that delegates can look forward to an excellent social program including social, traditional and enjoyable events as the Welcoming Luncheon; Annual Citrus Breakfast; sponsored again this year by the Florida Citrus Commission; a Western Style Barbecue; and the Annual Banquet which will climax the Convention on Friday evening. While recreational opportunities at The Breakers feature something for everyone, a number of sports activities are scheduled for Friday, September 24, including the Annual Men's Golf Tournament, a T. — Round Robin; and a New-Golfers Putting Tournament.

A number of special events also have been planned for spouses attending the Convention. Teets summarized the Convention plans with the comment, "Everyone is looking forward to the Annual Convention. The program looks very good, the social events are relaxing, and the ambience of The Breakers unparalleled."

For further information regarding Florida Fruit & Vegetable Association's Annual Meeting, contact Lew Haverd, Convention Coordinator at 305/994-1351.

Summer Annuals

BY Dr. Robert J. Black
IFAS Extension Horticulturist

Now, during the in-between season for planting colorful summer and fall annuals, is an excellent time to select plants and seeds and to locate easy-to-care-for pots and containers.

Annuals are easy to care for and fast to perform. They adapt readily to containers provided they do not outgrow the size of their containers.

Dwarf varieties of summer annuals may be planted several to a pot, spacing each plant approximately six inches apart. One plant should be enough for a six or eight inch pot. Be sure the annual you choose is a summer flowering type and one that will endure the heat and long days of summer and fall.

Other "children of the sun" which will reward summer days with vivid and continual color in pots may include vinca or periwinkle, portulaca, gailardia or blanket flowers, and ornamental peppers.

There are non-flowering plants, too, for containers, which have a wide range of colorful foliage. The gay summer and fall colors of coleus, alternanthera and scalypta or copper-leaf are quite adaptable in planter boxes or other containers, and perform well under the arrival of winter.

Lush summer greens for pots may include ferns, fatsia, banana English ivy, elephant ear and auburn. Unlike most of the flowering annuals, these colorful foliageplants like the greens demand a shaded location in the garden.

Even though container plants are easy

to care for, they do have their demands for success. The major requirement is that of watering. The hot days of summer quickly dry out the container; therefore, they will need watering at least three times a week, if not more often. Use a slow stream of water so as not to disturb the soil or shallow root area. Potting soil should be loose and well drained to insure good water penetration and to prevent soil compaction.

Plant foods in the potted plants are quickly washed from the soils with continued watering thus need replacement with a bi-weekly feeding of a complete liquid house-plant fertilizer.

The removal of faded blooms of flowering container plants is important, as it is actually a slight pruning process which encourages more branching and more blooms. Terminal shoots of young plants may be pinched back to form a more bushy and well-branched plant in the container even before it starts flowering and during early stages of growth.

The wide selection of colorful summer and fall plants for pots, and the portable aspect of pot gardening which allows for a change or rearrangement in placement or pot grouping, will guarantee fun and attractiveness in home landscaping. Pot gardening also uses a limited amount of room and a small investment for such big rewards. The gardener who will plan ahead may add rich and vivid color with potted summer and fall annuals to grace the patio, poolside, wall or doorstep.
